The Biggest Social Media Trends Shaping 2025

Forbes

The social media trends shaping 2025 are like something we've never seen before—the landscape is undergoing a massive transformation. There is a seismic shift where social media networks are moving from social media to just media, where people passively consume content rather than engage meaningfully. Plus, TikTok's questionable long-term sustainability has left many grappling with uncertainties in monetization and community building.

The driving force behind these shifts? A renewed focus on connection and empowerment—giving creators and users alike the tools and spaces to thrive authentically. So, if you're ready to understand the trends shaping the future of social media and how they'll impact creators and brands, stick around. Let's dive in!

UGA SBDC helps Georgia businesswoman build multi-million dollar steel fabrication company

Virginia Murphy isn't afraid of hard work or forging her own path. The founder and CEO of Waste Water Industrial Solutions (WWIS), Murphy leads a thriving structural steel fabrication company with expertise in designing, re-building and installing wastewater treatment equipment. Headquartered in Atlanta and founded in 2017, the business has grown from a modest startup to a multimillion-dollar operation with 35 full-time employees.

Supporting that evolution every step of the way has been the University of Georgia Small Business Development Center (UGA SBDC), which provides no-cost business consulting and training to Georgia's small business community.

Murphy first contacted the UGA SBDC in 2021 amid the challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic. Like many small business owners at that time, she was struggling to navigate federal relief programs. Her application for an Economic Injury Disaster Loan (EIDL) had been denied, and she turned to Todd Anduze, area director of the UGA SBDC in Gwinnett, for help.

"Todd connected me to the right person, gave me the language I needed, and told me where to send it," said Murphy. "When I got that money, that was huge. It helped me survive COVID." Murphy credits that early guidance with keeping her business afloat at a critical moment. "Being a small business, one of our biggest challenges is financial resources," she said. "Todd helped me survive."
