"One of the many great things about this special place is our staff. We have maintained long term employees over the years, and we believe this has been a big key to our success. Everyone here at Canyon Grill cares deeply about each other and our guests. Lawton and Karen created something truly special way back in 1996 and we all want to see that tradition continue on."

Johnny Holland

Canyon Grill was originally opened by Lawton Haygood, a Lookout Mountain native well-known as a fine-dining chef in Texas, Florida, and California, along with his wife, Karen Haygood. Haygood returned to his southern roots back in NW Georgia in 1996 to open the refined southern dining restaurant, the Canyon Grill.

After nearly 20 years training and working with the Haygoods, Johnny Holland, along with wife Jessica, took over Canyon Grill in 2014. Under their direction, Canyon Grill continues to focus on seasonal cooking with high-quality ingredients – always letting the food speak for itself.

UGA SBDC Teamwork Aids Lula Business Owner in Two Major Ventures

Pest Control Insulation & Tallulah Adventures

Bill Turk created his business and patented technology – thermal acoustical pest control insulation (TAP®) – because of opportunities unique to Georgia, including his work with the Gainesville office of the University of Georgia Small Business Development Center (UGA SBDC).

Turk launched his transformative, multi-million-dollar pest control and insulation distribution business – Pest Control Insulation, LLC – in the 100-year-old shed behind his home in Homer, Georgia, eventually moving it to Lula in 2012. He started out as a poultry farmer in Banks County. As a volunteer for the Chestatee Chattahoochee Resource Conservation and Development Council (RC&D), he eventually found himself running a paper recycling plant that developed animal bedding made from wastepaper for poultry houses.

“The RC&D was providing grants to help entities that could divert paper waste from landfills,” he said. “However, the plant required repairs and upgrades so steep that the RC&D asked me to help sell it.”

Turk helped sell the plant, earning patent rights to the animal bedding. He worked with Orkin Pest Control to develop TAP®, the new insulation product, registered it as a pesticide with the Environmental Protection Agency, and got it patented. In 2001, he helped Orkin roll out TAP® and its attic capping program through a majority of Orkin’s 450+ branches across the U.S.
